3.0 The Legal Framework

- 3.1 Discrimination can take the following forms including:
 - 3.1.1 Direct Discrimination - This occurs where a person is treated less favourably than others because of their (or a family member's) actual or perceived protected characteristic.
 - 3.1.2 Indirect Discrimination - This occurs by applying a provision, criterion, or practice, which disadvantages people on the grounds of a protected characteristic, and which cannot be justified as a proportionate means of achieving a legitimate aim.

 - Direct and indirect discrimination
 - Discrimination arising from disability – where someone is treated unfavourably because of something arising in consequence of their disability and it cannot be justified as a proportionate means of achieving a legitimate aim; and

 - 3.1.4 Victimisation - This occurs where an individual has exercised their rights under equality legislation (or has indicated that they intend to do so) and is treated less favourably as a direct result. It applies equally to a person who is supporting (or indicates that they intend to support) another person who is exercising their rights under the legislation.
 - 3.1.5 Harassment – This is defined as unwanted conduct related to a relevant protected characteristic which has the purpose OR effect of violating an individual's dignity or creating a hostile, humiliating or offensive environment for that individual.
- 3.2 There are other types of bullying or harassing behaviours, which the College recognises which may not fall within the legal definition under the Equality Act because they are not related to a protected characteristic. Examples include.
